FROM FRANCE.

THE ENTHUSIASM IN PARIS OVER THE REPUBLIC—THE BONAPARTE DEMONSTRATION.

PARIS, September 6—Evening.—Paris is in a state of indescribable enthusiasm. Everywhere there are cries of Vive la République.

At 3:30 a flag was torn down from the Tuileries. The people entered the palace, and are through the gates of the Tuileries gardens, doing no damage. The Garde Mobile now occupy the Tuileries.

The soldiers in the barracks Assai de Orsai cry "Vive la République," from the windows. Crowds are in front of the house of the Emperor are torn from houses by the soldiers amid universal enthusiasm.

The people have sent a deputation to the Hotel de Ville. Portraits of the Emperor and Empress were torn down in the streets of the capital. Not a drop of blood has been shed.

THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT.

The following is a corrected list of the Provisional Government, including the name of Napoleon Gallois, Count de Kerratry, Crémieux, Arago, Cremieux, Jules Favre, Jules Ferry, Gambetta, Garnier Pages, Glais Bizoin, Pelletan, Rochefort, Jules Simon and Picard. The Ministry is as follows: Minister of Foreign Affairs, Jules Favre; Minister of the Interior, Count Kerratry; Minister of Interior, Henri Rochefort; Minister of Finance, Ernest Picard; Minister of Public Works, Pelletan; Minister of Commerce, Garnier Pages; Minister of Public Instruction, Jules Simon; Minister of Marine, Martin Feuille; Minister of War, Le Flo; Minister of Justice, Crémieux; President of the Committee.

PROCLAMATION BY THE MAYOR.

The Mayor has issued the following proclamation:

Citizens of Paris, Friday, September 2.—Citizens: I hasten to announce to you that the proclamation of the National Government of the Republic of France, which is waiting for you to proclaim it, has been sent to-day. It is to you to-day that it belongs to take possession of your destinies. The Republic shall in the name of the people of Paris, and the name of the whole nation, the duties which the cause of the country imposes upon you. Long live the Republic! Long live France! For the Mayor, Dr. Jules Ferry.

ARAGO.

ANOTHER BY DEPUTIES GARNIER.

Garnier Pages, Deputy to Thiers, of September, 1870, addressed the people of the Department of the Seine, and urges them to support the Government of National Defense, and to remain perfectly tranquil and orderly.

All officers of the Paris Guard have been reinstated in their former grades.

Prefect of Police Keratry has placed additional seals on the doors of the Corps Legislatif.

GONE TO SEE KING WILLIAM—OTHERS REFUSED.

It is reported that Jules Favre has gone to meet King William, of Prussia.

The details of Napoleon's capitulation are awaited.

M. Rouher entered Paris last night.

It is reported that the Mobile troops have left Paris.

PROCLAMATION BY THE PREFECT OF POLICE.

The Prefect of Police has issued the following proclamation:

Inhabitants of Paris: After having for eighteen years enjoyed order and prosperity, you have just been taken by surprise. Since the 2d of August, when the Emperor left Paris, after the proclamation of the Regency, the Empress has had the wisdom to avoid from the public powers the shock of the most terrible reverses. Yesterday, when the Empress left the Tuileries, the Ministry, the Senate and the Corps Legislatif had ceased to exist. The Empress has taken refuge in a friendly country. Paris remains alone. Let us not accuse her. Let us not accuse ourselves. Let us not waste our time in vain regrets. Let us act. Let us not lose a moment. Let us not lose a moment. Let us not lose a moment

GENERAL TROCHU, dictator of the French Republic is not the man, even in the event of his achieving complete victory to play the Napoleon and found another dynasty. Nevertheless now he seems to be the idol of impulsive Paris. Let him but encounter disaster, and there will be none so low to do him reverence.

THE CHRISTIAN WORLD will applaud any movement in the direction of visiting punishment on the Chinese demons who were engaged in the recent terribly wicked massacre of the French at Tent-Tsin. It is, therefore, with very decided satisfaction that we receive the announcement that England and France will make war on the Orientals, and thus provide for the safety of foreigners in that land in the future.

ROCHEFORT has been borne in triumph to the Hotel de Ville and constituted a member of the new Government. It is to be hoped for the honor of Republican institutions, that this reckless reprobate will receive no further considerations at the hands of the new masters of Paris. He has already done mischief enough in as much as he has contributed more largely than any other man to the feelings of distrust with which the friends of democracy throughout the world regard Republicanism in France.

MCMAHON lies dead at Namur. Such is the brief telegram that reaches us, and we can but feel that as brave an officer, as gallant a soldier and as great a General as was in the French army has willingly thrown himself in the fore-front of the fight, rather desiring to die, than live to witness the terrible disaster of his men. Once before within the last month he made the same effort, advancing at the head of a charge while desiring his staff to remain behind. That time he escaped. This time, the death no doubt he sought, welcomed him.

WILL the citizens of Paris ever be able to know whose they live? Every change of government changes the names of streets and districts. Thus we learn that the street of December, named in honor of the month of the Coup d' Etat, has become that of September, in honor of the present month, and the avenue of the Emperor has become that of Victor Noir, in memory of the man who, from being the victim of a Bonaparte, is considered a hero, although, as he was the companion of Rochefort, it is to be supposed he was a bird of the same feather.

A BAS THIERS! is said to be one of the cries which resounds among the turmoil in the streets of Paris. The old Statesman has outlived many vicissitudes and if experience creates repose, must be as tranquil under the existing circumstances as was the least Napoleon at Saarbruck. Longer headed than the recent rulers of France, he prepared in time of peace for invasion, and among the minor news which came, from Paris six weeks ago was one significant item, which stated that Thiers had just had iron shutters put upon all his windows. It is a curious spectacle to imagine; the old Statesman sitting in his easy chair behind his bullet proof barricade listening to the uproar outside, and perhaps occasionally catching above it all a shrill cry of "Death to Thiers!"

A TELEGRAM says: Wherever the American flag is displayed the process stems halt and salute it with cheers. So it would seem that the Germans, besides uniting themselves, are also in close sympathy with us. And as the vast majority of natives in this country shared the enthusiasm of our German citizens in their hour of victory, so the German people at home recognize the sincerity of this feeling on our part and greet heartily our emblem in their streets. It speaks well for the peace of the world that the three rising nations, America, Prussia and Russia are hand in hand. If they can but maintain this feeling, and their interests being separate there seems to be no reason why they should not, the chances are that a long future of peace awaits the civilized world.

SO AT LAST, with McMahon but of the way, and Bazaine entrapped, the Crown Princes of Prussia and Saxony are marching on Paris. The enthusiasm of the Republic once before drove the Germans out of France, but it was not under similar circumstances. The armies of that other invasion were hireling troops, ill paid, ill armed, and, when compared with the hosts of to-day, but few in number. We cannot think that, if Trochu leads his recently levied masses, inferiorly armed and lowered with the yeast of a Paris mob, against the mighty organizations of the German Princes armed with needle guns, glowing with enthusiasm and flushed with their glorious victories, there can be any other result than a disastrous one for the French. It may be otherwise but it certainly does not seem so to us.

THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION yesterday was about as harmonious as the gatherings of that party generally are. The Post "ring" ticket was partially put through, but a defection in the ranks, after our exposure of the ticket fixed up, caused the revision of the slate and the giving away of some of the offices to those outside the "ring." The ticket is, therefore, the result of the intriguing of the factions. Our advice to the Convention was heeded, and the vive voce plan of nominating was adopted. This the Post "ring," of course, did not like, as it compelled the members set up for an office in advance to show their hands and vote differently than what they would have done had the marking system been pursued. The ticket is a weak one. There is not a strong man among the candidates, or one who will receive an hundred votes outside of his party on his own popularity. The entire ticket can be easily overthrown at the polls in October. The arrangement of the Republican party on divers charges contained in what were deemed by the author crushing resolutions, is particularly funny, coming from such a source as a Democratic Convention. We will have more to say on another occasion on the material in the ticket and the balder dash in the resolutions.

THE ISSUE MADE.

The issue is now made for the campaign of 1870. There are three tickets in the field in Allegheny county—the Republican, the anti-Republican and the Democratic. These represent three shades of opinion. The first stands boldly in the front and points to the grand and glorious record of deeds done in the past, enunciates the pure and unsullied principles of Republicanism in its broadest meaning, asserts in favor of protection to labor, demands economy in all public offices and the faithful conduct of public affairs, acknowledges the national debt as a sacred obligation to be discharged, fully and honorably, and as rapidly as possible, encourages voluntary immigration, but opposes all systematic attempts to bring into the country people of any other nationality to compete with our laboring masses and remain in semi-slavery here where only freedom prevails.

The anti-Republican party has no principles to avow, none to sustain, none on which to claim the vote of any intelligent or thoughtful Democrat or Republican. Its leaders may possibly propose the tunneling of the Atlantic, the building of a railway to the moon, or any other absurdity for aught the people know to the contrary. Its purpose is not found in the daily enunciations of the Commercial, its ticket is found at the head of that paper, its supporters in a few of the names on that ticket.

Next comes the fossilized, anti-progressive, slow-moving, decrepid, worn out old party that travels on crutches, and is sure all over from the frequent castigations and kicks received at the hands of an enlightened free people. Despite the fact that this straggling, stubborn crew cannot be brought to the front in the march of ideas, cannot be lifted out of the deep ruts of prejudice and total depravity in which they have been stagnating at the rear, still we must lend them a measurable degree of admiration, for we always know that, like mosquitoes in summer, they will ever sing their plaintive woes, hoping only for a chance to again suck the blood of the nation. Continued hostility to the negro, the turning of time backward in order that great public improvements may be undone, are about the only planks in their platform worthy of note. The Democratic party dare not lift the veil of the past and bid the world behold what it has done. Responsible for the perpetuation and extension of slavery, it is therefore responsible for the terrible war which swept over our lands, carrying misery, sorrow and ruin into hundreds of thousands of households and plunging the government into a debt which the youngest of us may not live to see wholly discharged. This, this is the past record of a party that audaciously asks to be reinstated in power without atonement for its crimes, without doing penance for its sins.

Thus the issue is made. Republicans, you never failed to do your whole duty in the dark hours when you country was threatened even unto death. You paused not in the discharge of your obligations when patriotism meant something more than the idle word. When your brothers, your sons and your comrades fell dead at the feet of the foe, you faltered not then but pressed forward and dreamed of triumphant victory and perpetual peace. You conquered. We have peace. Think now what it cost to build up the great Republican party; how it has triumphed over its foes and made this whole broad land happy, prosperous and free. Do not thoughtlessly give aid to the enemy, appear he in whatever guise to deceive you he may. Your principles have undergone no change, your party has yet a grand mission to accomplish. Stand by the old flag and meet the enemy as you have met him before with a solid, unyielding front and victory must and shall be yours.

THE THIRD PARTY.

The Republicans of the county of Allegheny will have this year two Democratic parties to defeat. The one, consistent and regular, openly avowing its principles and bravely meeting the consequences of their own declarations. The other, a party which has no expressed will of its own, no declared purpose, but is stealing in to aid the Democracy, under an assumed name. At the head of one party is the Post. We know just where to find it. At the head of the other is the Commercial. Its whereabouts is a more difficult matter to determine. Here to-day, there to-morrow, assailing a gentleman at one time because it thought he was to be nominated on the Republican ticket, and deeply sympathizing with him after it became known he was not nominated and assailing the "Ring" for having defeated him. One thing, however, is true. The Commercial is intentionally aiding the Democracy, and may be safely pronounced a Democratic sheet, if that infinitely more honest press will receive it.

It has not the slightest expectation of success. It knows that defeat will follow its efforts. Over and over again it has asserted in its columns, this to be its conviction. That the result was a certainty, and the Republican party would be defeated. With this feeling it goes into the canvass under the assumed pretence of aiding the Republican cause, and in order that it may be a true prophet it maligns and slanders the Republican ticket as a body. We have asked it hitherto a few questions. It assumes to be Republican. It professes great love for pure Republican principles. It asserts its only object is reform. We inquire of the Commercial whether it prefers the success of the Democratic party to the election of the nominees on the Republican ticket? It asserts that two tickets in the field will unquestionably defeat both. Now we inquire if it is its determination to defeat both rather than the nominees of the Republican ticket should be elected?

But the Commercial is not alone to blame. Every man on the ticket of that third party, who allows his name to remain there, knowing that the charges of the Commercial are deliberately untrue, is a disorganizer. We make no exceptions. Nor are we going to palliate the act by saying they are well meaning men, who have been misled. They are not. They are simply, voluntarily lending their aid to the disruption of a great party, for no useful purpose under heaven. The ticket we have presented to the county stands squarely before them for arguments on principle and not on personal slurs. If they are thinking men, they cannot fail to have seen, that the articles of their Organ, consists only of a mass of vulgar and nonsensical personal diatribes, without in any one single instance entering into a cool and dispassionate argument directed to the common sense and to the convictions of the people. That not a single effort has yet been made to prove that the ticket nominated at the Republican convention, will not truthfully and fairly carry out the resolutions as laid down in that convention.

If the resolutions do not satisfy those gentlemen then let them come squarely out, and denounce the odious resolution. We will not alter them, for they express pure Republican principles that have already been commended to the whole State. They are what Republicans want, and if they do not suit those gentlemen let us know on what ground they object, that we may support them openly, and not have a nonsensical and utterly useless fight in the very heart of Republicanism.

We say useless, because these gentle men affect no open or avowed principle. If we turn to the columns of their Organ of yesterday, we find it, as usual, utterly devoid of information. A mass of incoherent stuff—empty words—about the "Ring," but not one scintilla of proof that the ticket nominated by the Republicans was not the result of the expressed will of the delegates assembled, or that in any one instance the Ring by fraud or otherwise manipulated a single nomination.

If these gentlemen are satisfied with the resolutions, are they dissatisfied with the nominees? If they have any objections well founded and based on good sound ground, why not let us know what they are? If they affect the Republican party, they are public property and the citizens should know them. But, turning to the Organ, we find the legislative nominees attacked in a body, without in any one instance making the most remote charge against their Republicanism. Indeed, the studied attempt of that sheet seems to be to mystify the people, and intimate by words what it neither has the proof nor the truth to utter in expressed sentences.

Failing therefore to give us the slightest reason for their persistence in thus dividing the party we pronounce them disorganizers. The milk and water argument that they were first in the field would only confirm the application of the term. Parties must be organized and governed by rules. The Republican Convention was regular, and at the time appointed. If some great principle was at stake, a Convention of men would undoubtedly have the right to meet and act at any hour they pleased, but their right to carry out the result of that meeting must be based on the principles they espouse, and not on the fact of their being first in the field. The attempt therefore of the Commercial to take this ground, only shows to what miserable expedients it is compelled to resort to sustain its actions.

We stand before the county, claiming the unity of all true Republicans for the following reasons:

OUR CONVENTION was regular.

OUR RESOLUTIONS are commended by the Republicans of the whole State.

OUR NOMINEES are gentlemen endorsed by the will of the Convention representing the popular vote.

OUR TICKET is composed of men who will carry the resolutions into effect.

The Third Party stands before the county with the single claim of being

The first in the field.

They have made no other claim. They have not denied the justice and the good faith of our resolutions; they do not deny our Convention was regular; they do not offer the slightest proof that the nominees were manipulated by the Ring; they do not present a single reason why these nominees will not carry those resolutions into effect.

This is a plain statement of facts. Who then are the disorganizers, bearing in mind that the Commercial declares that the Republican party will be defeated by having two tickets in the field. With this array of facts before the public, what shadow of an excuse can be assigned, for this useless fight gotten up by a few men, who for years have been jealous because they were not recognized as leaders, and who have taken this step to secure power and for that alone. The Commercial is not alone to blame, but every man who allows his name to stand on that ticket without being able to assign any ground of principle for his attempt to disrupt a great party, is neither more nor less than a disorganizer and should be treated as such.

We are told this language may strengthen some of those Third Party nominees, and induce them to remain on their ticket, when a little concession and compromise might induce them to withdraw. That by speaking plain words we may anger them, and they, out of anger, do that they would not otherwise have done. We cannot help it. If our words are true we have a right to utter them, and a right that will sleep no longer. If our words are untrue they would not withdraw no matter how closely our lips might be sealed.

We feel a love clinging to our hearts for that party that has made a nation free, and given it a name, that even amid the wild insanity of an angry people, who are kindling their wrath over defeat with scenes of riot and disorder, the word "American" arrests their havoc, and with a cheer for the land of freedom they pass on. We feel we are again in the midst of those appeals to passion and prejudice used by the Democracy during our national war. We feel that those who are not with us are against us, and we mean to write frankly and plainly just what we feel.

THE TUNE CHANGED.

Last year when Humphries, White, Kerr and Taylor were nominated for Assembly by the Republican Legislative Convention, the Commercial went wild with delight. Capital letters danced over all its columns, and through innumerable paragraphs, announcing with childish glee the defeat of the "ring" in the nomination of these men. The exultation of the Israelites, after crossing the Red Sea, was as nothing compared with the inspired enthusiasm of the Commercial on that occasion. Miriam was, previous to that, held in some repute, but the glory of her name paled its ineffectual fires before the splendor of the Commercial's lyre, as it pealed forth the death of the ring and all its hosts. The Commercial had triumphed and the people were free.

This year the Republican Legislative Convention has renominated the same four men. Where, now, are the pealing anthems which we heard a year ago? If Carnahan, Brigham & Co. triumphed so gloriously last year, why are they so glum now? The lyre has changed its tune. It is the "ring" that has triumphed now. The four men whose success it claimed last year as the defeat of the "ring" are now denounced as the candidates of that "ring." Can such things be, and overcome us like a summer's cloud, and not excite our special wonder? Scarcely. It cannot be that the Commercial was right on both these occasions. If it was right last year, it is wrong now. If it tells the truth now, it was lying then. Or will it escape the dilemma by acknowledging (which would be good for its soul, if it has any) that it was lying at both times?

That would be the simple truth. For neither the Commercial nor the "ring" triumphed last year, but the people, and the people have again succeeded in having their own way, paying as little heed to the Commercial as to the fancied "ring." The delegates of the Legislative Convention were unable to see or trace the slightest indication of a "ring." They voted as they pleased, this year as last, without dictation from any quarter.

But this does not relieve the dilemma of the bolters' organ. From that it cannot escape without going forth with the stamp of falsehood on its brow. Apparently, it seems to be regardless of such a consequence. It has no regard for consistency or truth. But the people differ from it in this respect. They have a deep regard for both; and will consequently spurn the counsels of a paper which sets all such virtues at defiance.

THE DOGMA DEFIED.

In the excitement and jubilation over the news from the seat of war, an event of vital importance in the polemical world has run the risk of being overlooked. Yet three months ago the news that the German bishops, in conference at Fulda, have unanimously agreed never to submit to the decision of the Œcumenical Council upon the question of the Dogma of Papal Infallibility, would have produced the most profound sensation; nor is the action likely to produce any less marked results, merely because the popular attention happens to be diverted in another direction. The Catholic Church in Germany has for centuries been opposed to the ideas, plans and aims of the more numerous ultramontane prelates and cardinals, but in religion as in politics, it was never possible until now to find unity in Germany. It required some great and bold outside interference, whose hopes of success were based upon the factions and jealousies of the various sovereignties to thoroughly arouse the German priests as well as people to a sense of the danger of their internal disagreements, and as the gauntlet of defiance flung down by Napoleon acted upon the people, so has this last, bold, supreme measure of the Society of Jesus and its adherents at last aroused the clergy, and joined them in a mutual resistance. Nor is the importance of the moment felt alone by the Fathers of the German Church. In the University of Munich, a Catholic seat of learning of immense influence, a protest against the dogma, which fulminates against the Council, avers that freedom of speech was restricted by it and denies its authority, has been signed by forty-four out of the sixty-four professors. These two events, but more especially the former, must necessarily have significant effect in Rome, and we can not at present see how a division in the Church, a secession of the German sees from the jurisdiction of the Holy Father, can be avoided without the retraction of the recent promulgation.

THEOLOGICAL.

WE take from the Churchman the following report of the decision of the Dean of Arches in the case of Rev. W. E. Bennet, which the clerical and lay members of the Church both of England and America have awaited with much of solicitude and of hope and fear, according to the diverse opinions entertained on the doctrines involved:

Sir R. J. Phillimore, Dean of Arches, has at length given his judgement in the case of Sheppard vs. the Rev. W. J. E. Bennett. The prosecution charged Mr. Bennett, as our readers will remember, with contravening the doctrine of the Church of England with respect to the (1) Real Objective Presence; (2) the Sacrifice of the Altar; (3) and Eucharistical Adoration. The position assumed by the Rev. Mr. Bennett was that our Lord Jesus Christ is really present in the Sacrament, objectively; that the Sacrifice of the Altar is a true Sacrifice; and that our Lord's Sacramental Presence ought to be adored. The Dean gave judgment in favor of the defendant, a result for which we feel that Catholics of the Anglican Communion cannot be too thankful to Almighty God.

And this judgment is of the greater weight when one recalls the fact that Mr. Bennett persistently, from the very first, ignored the Court and its proceedings. Sir Robert Phillimore received no assistance whatever from the defendant's counsel, for the very good reason that there was none such, and was obliged to study up the theological points involved in the case for himself. The case, therefore, was decided on its merits, with everything but bare truth in favor of the Church Association, at whose instance the proceedings were had.

Result of a Clandestine Marriage.

Lockland has been stirred up lately in a rather unusual and lively manner, by the clandestine match and marriage of a fair representative of one of the first families. It seems that the above-mentioned family made Put-in-Bay their objective point a few weeks ago, and while there recuperating and listlessly spending the fleeting hours, the young lady, whom we shall call "Gussie," for short, formed the acquaintance of a young man "from the country," who succeeded in insinuating himself into her confidence so far as to get up an attachment. Upon the return of the family, recently, to their suburban home, the gay young Lothario accompanied the young lady, and while en route stopped in Dayton, the balance of the family going directly home. Nothing would satisfy the young gentleman but a marriage at once. She acceded, and afterward wrote home that her husband's engagements would detain him from home, as his business was confined exclusively to traveling, and they would not be able to visit Lockland for some time on this account.

Now for the denouement. Under these representations, that he was required to travel, and would be absent only a short time, the confidence man left his young bride in Dayton, while he went "traveling." In a few days a fellow named Perry was arrested in Columbus for forgery, and turned out to be the identical chap who had captivated the young lady at Put-in-Bay, and had inveigled her into an engagement with him for life.—Cincinnati Commercial.

The Marquess of Hertford.

A celebrity of Paris, and indeed of the whole fashionable world, is gone forever, where there are no pictured statues, wine, equipages and beautiful women to lavish a princely income upon. The Marquess of Hertford, a man of quality and fortune, has been an important personage for many years. He was a Parisian to the tip of his nails. London he detested except as a place from whence to draw his income. He expended his income treasures in profligacy of every description, save when tormented by a merciless gout which of late years scarcely left him. He bought pictures like a madman; his agents were all over Europe and their orders were to pay any price for whatever might be worth buying. He bought the Murillo for $900,000, having a severe tussle for it with the late Demidoff, who was always rivalling him in expenditures. His father was the original of Thackeray's Steyne, and was a nobleman of surprising rapidity in his life. With the Duke of Orleans and other profligates they held the maddest carouses in Paris and London and were famous, the Continent over, as gamblers, duellists and libertines. It was with the old Marquess that Philippe Egalite rode stark naked, one day, from Versailles to Paris to win a bet; and it was of the same "blood" the sum of a million of francs was won on the turn of a card. The late Marquess upheld the reputation of the family, but leaves a comfortable estate to his heir, Captain Hugh de Grey Seymour, and an unsurpassed collection of wine, pictures, villas and palaces.

The Dangers of Luxuriant Whiskers.

On Monday, John H. Nye enjoyed the quickest shave of his life. He is employed in Newell & Herritt's cabinet factory, and used to pride himself somewhat upon a luxuriant growth of black whiskers. He does not do it so much now. While operating one of the machines his whiskers became entangled therein, and gave strong promise of taking the balance of the man along. To this Nye objected, and put his objections into practical shape. As it became apparent that something must be done and quickly, John braced himself and tested the strength of the hair upon his face. It proved strong, and he braced himself the more firmly, when all the hair upon one side of his face pulled out by the roots, and left that part of his face as bare as it was the day he was born. He experiences no inconvenience from the loss of his whiskers, except a soreness of the place where they were pulled out.—Lima (O.) Gazette, Aug

THE fire in Chicago, by which the finest block of business houses in the city was destroyed—that owned by Messrs. Drake, Farwell and Thatcher—was the most memorable that ever took place in that place. The loss was $2,500,000, and the insurance $1,554,500. At six o'clock on Sunday afternoon, when the fire was at its height, and the stores were filled with men at work trying to save property, a side wall fell, carrying with it the floors, and twenty or thirty men and boys were crushed instantly into a fiery death. The catastrophe was witnessed by a vast throng, and when it occurred women screamed and swooned, and men wept in an agony of helplessness. Nothing could be done to save the victims. At the time the Chicago papers of Monday went to press no one could tell who were the victims, but Mr. Farwell and one of his clerks, named Bornheim, and a lawyer named Daniel Tenney, are among the missing. It is feared many other valuable and prominent citizens were lost.

THE SHIVERING SEASON.

The loss to the laboring classes of the United States caused by fever and ague, has been estimated at upwards of two millions of dollars per annum. Whole settlements are sometimes prostrated by the disease, and it is regarded in some localities, as one of those visitations of providence which cannot be avoided. This is a mistake. As certainly as any of the evils which are invited by neglect may be forestalled by precaution—so certainly may an attack of intermittent (or remittent) fever be prevented by invigorating the system with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, in advance of the season, at which this malady prevails. Prevention, it is needless to say, is the wisest policy; but it is consoling to know that where time has not been thus taken by the forelock, and the paroxysms have actually commenced, a complete cure may, in all cases, be rapidly effected by the use of this powerful vegetable tonic. The reputation of the Bitters as a specific for dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation and nervous debility, has in some measure thrown into the shade its merits as a preventive and cure of other ailments, but all who have ever taken it, either as a protection against or a remedy for malarious fevers, will admit that it surpasses in efficiency all the so-called specifics (including quinine), usually prescribed for these maladies, while it is at the same time entirely harmless and decidedly palatable.

GRATES! GRATES!
GRATES!
Keep Your Houses Clean,
AND
BY USING THE
Wellman Patent Reflector Grate.
WHICH STANDS WITHOUT A RIVAL.

We claim for it the following advantages over any other in use:
1st. As a radiator of heat it has double the intensity.
2d. It is unquestionably the most cleanly—very little soot or ashes escaping into the room—which, in the ordinary Grate, proves so detrimental to carpets and furniture.
3d. The combustion is perfect. There is no waste in unburnt cinders—every ounce of the fuel is so completely consumed, that nothing remains but the finest ashes.
4th. As an economizer of fuel—there being an actual saving of at least 25 per cent.
5th. It is highly ornamental.
6th. It is set so deep in the chimney, that it is much safer, and also less liable to puff in windy weather.
7th. A slight motion of the shaker cleanses the entire fire, and causes it to burn with great brilliancy and intensity of heat.
Samples may be seen and references had at the store of W. BARNES, corner of 3d avenue and Market street, Pittsburgh: W. F. GOODWIN, 66 Federal street, Allegheny, or at the FOUNDRY, corner Duquesne Way and Water street, Pittsburgh.
Parties who are building, or who contemplate changing Grates, are respectfully requested to examine "The Wellman." Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.

THE DAILY GAZETTE.

MONEY AND COMMERCE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, Sept. 6, 1870.

The money market is rather more active. The offerings for discount indicate a growing demand for loans, and a gratifying increase in our local trade. New paper is, to some extent, taking the place of the short paper with which the banks and the street made frequent acquaintance during the dull summer months. The war questions so possible long continuance, are greatly passe, is much discussed in financial circles. Opinions vary greatly upon the ability of Napoleon of France to keep up the bombast, and no less do they differ upon the effects of a sudden peace on the money and stock markets. The New York World speculates as follows in yesterday's edition:

The event in financial circles is the surrender of the French Emperor and army, which is considered the advent of the peace. Gold declined to 10¼, and the whole list of bond and stock markets were more active and advanced. The bull element in the stock market have concentrated their forces to advance prices, on the assumption that the war is now closed, and that a tremendous drive will be made during the fall. Everything depends upon the facts in regard to the condition of affairs here are that the financial aspect throughout the country is the reverse of the dull, flat, and unprofitable year, and in the inland cities, that at this period of last year it was almost impossible to make collections, even in small amounts, except at very high rates; that stocks are from ten to twenty-five per cent. below the quotations of last year, and that they were then largely distributed and held in strong hands. Last year one prominent broker's firm, that afterwards failed in the panic of September, had a pile of bonds and stocks, chiefly Erie and Hall, then ranging about 70, which they threw about 105, operators who were then a year later gave up bulls of the present time.

To favor the bull element the money market is extremely easy, and the banks are willing to have it carried that way, as they loan on time loans made for periods ranging from three to six months. All the railroads terminating at Chicago and Northwestern for the month of August is very large. The increase in the Chicago and Northwestern for the first week of September will advance from 30 to 40 per cent. Shrewd parties are giving the point to every one that their stocks will advance from 10 to 15 per cent. as River roads are running about one day per day, and that the books closing in a few days for the fall dividends, and the scrip sold for purchases. In plain terms, the clique intend to commence their campaign for a decided bull campaign. Whether they succeed or not this year in Europe, they have time waiting to see the closed.

The course of the market to-day would seem to give some color to their stocks propensities. Gold was reported early in the morning at 110¼, which looked as though there was some confidence felt in the power of French resistance, but the later quotations show a steady market, with quotations at 114¾. Government bonds are quiet, closing, however, from ¼@¾ lower than the morning rates. Robinson Bros., No. 78 Fourth avenue, furnish the following comparative statement:

HOME NEWS.

The Express from Philadelphia was three hours behind time yesterday, caused by an engine breaking down.

Alderman Taylor yesterday issued a warrant for the arrest of Thomas Kiley for abandonment of his wife, Mary Kiley.

Mary Hastings came in all the way from Chartiers township to tell Alderman Taylor that Mary Perkins had called her names and threatened her with violence. The magistrate issued a warrant for the arrest of Mary Perkins.

The American Fruit Press.—This press supplies a long needed article for family use. It is one of the greatest wonders of the age. Persons putting up fruit of all kinds, after using it wouldn't be without it. For full particulars see advertisement on first page.

Notice.—The members of Avery Council, U. F. A., are notified to turn out in their full strength at the hall, on Water street, Allegheny, Thursday evening, September 8, at 7½ o'clock. Business of great importance will be submitted.

R. F. PULPHUS, President.

The inhabitants of a court of Liberty street, near Sixth avenue, were entertained yesterday by a little row between Julia Brant and James and Marguerite McKenna. The latter were the victorious party. Julia was called on to defend the dispute, Julia appearing as prosecutrix against the McKennas. The case was compromised by the payment of costs.

Friends Quarrel.—The friendship heretofore existing between John Conner and William Smith was broken up by a quarrel which they had in Schmidt's saloon, Fifth avenue, Friday. The dispute assumed such proportions as to form the basis of an assault and battery suit. John being fined for the same by Alderman Gripp, Deputy Mayor Nichols has the case in hand and will settle it legally this evening.

A horse attached to a market wagon took fright from the locomotive yesterday morning on Sycamore street, Allegheny, at the West Penn railroad crossing, and ran away. The occupant of the vehicle was thrown out, but not badly injured, being more frightened than hurt. The wagon was broken to some extent, but was hooked on in front of John Woodie's blacksmith shop and the damage will settle it legally this evening.

Tobacco Association.—At a meeting of the Tobacco Association of this city, held on Monday evening, the following officers were elected to serve the ensuing year. President, Thomas Hamilton; Secretary, Charles Ulrich; Treasurer, John Bissell; Executive Committee, Thomas Hamilton, Charles Ulrich, Peter Hutchinson, Thomas Kelly, Christian Stoeberl, Jacob Hoffman, Thomas Kelly, Christian Stoeberl, Jacob Hoffman, Thomas Kelly, Christian Stoeberl, Jacob Hoffman
